CANCERS CAN BE CURED. DR. L. CHASE, (LATE OF PORTLAND), THE CELEBRATED INDIANOPATHY, CANCER & TUMOR DOCTOR, HAVING purchased the residence of H. A. Wilbur, 54 Hammond Street, Bangor, Maine, would be happy to be consulted by all who are afflicted with: Cancers, Cancer Humors, Tumors, Scrofula, Leprosy, Salt Rheum, Fits, Neuralgia, Bronchial Affections, Catarrh, Rheumatism, Sick Headache, Liver Diseases, Female Weaknesses, Piles, Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, Diseases of the Kidneys, Stiff Joints, Gravel, Dickeys, &c., &c. Dr. Chase has practiced in his profession for sixteen years, and in that time has spent two years in Florida and Cuba, for the purpose of gaining a correct knowledge of the most efficient remedies used by the various tribes of Indians of that country, and by great expense has gained many valuable secrets which have heretofore been unknown to the world. In Cancer he claims superiority over all other Physicians of the age, for he never fails to perform a cure when taken in a proper stage. His method of curing Cancers is by the application of a plaster, which is strictly vegetable, and will have no effect upon the healthy flesh; and in no case uses a knife, as does Dr. Greene, of Boston. He also boldly asserts that he can tell every individual their disease and location of their pains, and describe their feelings in advance, more minutely than they can possibly themselves. Dr. Chase is not a Clairvoyant, but conducts his examinations on a strictly scientific principle, and will challenge any professed medium for a test examination. Office hours from 9 A.M. to 8 P.M. Examinations free. Office and residence No. 54 Hammond Street. November 7, 1866. dkw

TO MILL OWNERS. Hoisting & Canting Machine, FOR HOISTING LUMBER Upon Gang Edger Tables. BY this machine lumber is hoisted upon EDGER TABLES, to be edged, after passing through the Gang Sawed, by water or steam power, thereby saving all the hard lifting labor of edgers, as is well known to authors in saw mill. It can will edge from 1 to 3 to three thousand feet more lumber in a day with, than without, and do it much easier. Whether sawing large or small lumber, it hoists the lowest as well as the smallest sticks quicker than can be done by hand, at less cost than of hand done inch boards. In fact the machine hoists the heaviest timber with ease and rapidity, that is pleasing and gratifying to see. A great labor-saving machine has not been invented in a century, the value of which can never be computed in dollars and cents. Every one who pays his money for this machine will receive back again its entire cost by its use in one season, and in most cases in one half that time. They are strong and durable machines, and will stand constant use for years. Rights for sale by the inventor at Brewer Village, Maine. Further inquiries may be made of PALMER & JOHNSON, Exchange Street, Bangor, Me. mch 7 tf JAMES CRACY, PATENTEE.

THE MOST POPULAR COOKING STOVE IN NEW ENGLAND, The Model Cook for Wood or Coal, THIS STOVE has now been before the public for five years, and thoroughly tested in all respects, and to say that no stove yet made has given equal satisfaction is speaking within the bounds of truth, while it is no disparagement to other Stoves. THAT THIS MODEL COOK will do more work with a given amount of fuel than any other stove made, is a fixed fact. THE MODEL COOK will do more work for the reason that it has full one-third more oven room than any other stove. In point of economical for the reason that the fire is made between the ovens. No heat is lost. A more special feature of the Model Cook is the addition of a Ventilating Receiving Oven so arranged that it can be used separately for roasting, or in connection with the large oven for baking. By this process roasting and baking are entirely separate. This permanent extension gives an additional boiler hole and other room on the top of the stove, while at the same time the stove occupies no more room on the floor than ordinary stoves. In fact THE MODEL COOKS are acknowledged by all who have used them to be THE MOST PERFECT, THE MOST ECONOMICAL, THE MOST ORNAMENTAL, THE MOST BEAUTIFUL, AND THE Most Durable Stove in the World. THE MODEL COOKS are manufactured at the rate of 6000 per year, and the demand for them is increasing by leaps and bounds. EVERY MODEL COOK sold, is warranted to give entire satisfaction to purchasers, or the stove will be taken back and the full price refunded. The stove is sold at a price that places it within the reach of every family, and we feel confident that the Model Cook is the most economical, convenient, and best cooking stove ever offered to the public. Stove Dealers and others can be supplied at the factory, by the dozen, or by the single stove, on the same terms as any other first class stove. [illegible] BURGESS, Agent: N. HARRIS, Jr. apr 1 3m

THE CENTRAL Pacific R. R. Co., Having Completed, Equipped and put in operation nearly One Hundred Miles of their Road, from Sacramento, California, to within 12 Miles of the summit of the Sierra Nevada Mountains, continue to offer for sale, the unsold portion of their FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS. Issued in conformity with the Acts of Congress and the laws of the State of California, upon the division of their Road located in the State of California, and extending one hundred and fifty-six miles from Sacramento City to the California State line. These Bonds have Thirty Years to run from July 1, 1866, and are secured by a FIRST MORTGAGE, Constituting an absolute prior lien on the portion of Road above named, with all the Rights, Franchises, Equipments, &c., pertaining thereto. The amount of these First Mortgage Bonds to be issued per mile is limited by law to the amount of United States Bonds allowed and issued to aid the construction of the Road, and the Mortgage by which they are secured is DECLARED BY ACT OF CONGRESS TO CONSTITUTE A LIEN PRIOR AND SUPERIOR TO THAT OF THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT. Interest at the rate of Six per cent. per Annum, payable Semi-Annually, on the first days of January and July. Principal and Interest payable in UNITED STATES GOLD COIN, in the City of New York. The price of the Bonds is fixed for the present at 95 per cent., and accrued interest from January 1st in Currency, the Company reserving the right to advance the price whenever it is their interest to do so. The Road forms the Western part of the MAIN TRUNK OF THE Great National Pacific Railroad, authorized, adopted and aided by The United States Government. It runs through the heart of the richest and most populous section of the State of California, connecting the Extensive Mining Regions of Nevada, Utah and Idaho. With Sacramento and the Pacific Coast, from whence their supplies must be drawn, and the Earnings of the portion already running are very heavy, and is gain in excess of the interest upon the Company's Bonds. Having been for some time familiar with the operations of the Central Pacific Railroad Company, we are satisfied that they are conducted with rare ability and prudence, and that the energetic and economical management of the Company's affairs entitle them to the confidence of Capitalists and of the public. We have carefully investigated the progress, resources, and prospects of the Road, and have the full confidence in its success, and in the value and stability of the Company's securities. The attention of Trustees of Estates, Institutions, and individuals desiring a long, safe and remunerative investment, is especially invited to these First Mortgage Bonds. Despatches to the Evening Times.

NEW YORK, April 12

Vera Cruz dates to the 2d inst., have been received.

A disagreement had occurred between the Imperial Commissioner and Gen. Gomez, owing to which the latter threw up his commission and abandoned the cause. The disagreement is supposed also to extend to other officers who are expected to follow Gomez' example.

Gomez at the time of his resignation was commander of the Imperial forces in Vera Cruz.

Reports from the interior are conflicting. The story of Escobedo's defeat at Queretaro is supposed to have been manufactured in order to disperse the troops.

Puebla was reported to have been captured by the Liberals.

The Russo-American Treaty.

The New York papers print the Russo-American treaty, as ratified by the Senate of the United States. It is as follows:

The United States of America, and his Majesty the Emperor of all the Russias, being desirous of strengthening, if possible, the good understanding which exists between them, have for that purpose appointed as their plenipotentiaries, the President of the United States, William H. Seward, Secretary of State, and his Majesty the Emperor of all the Russias, Mr. Edward de Stoeckl, his Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to the United States; and the said plenipotentiaries, having exchanged their full powers, which were found to be in due form, have agreed upon and signed the following articles:

Article 1. His Majesty the Emperor of all the Russias agrees to cede to the United States, by this convention, immediately upon the exchange of the ratifications thereof, all the territory and dominion now possessed by his said Majesty on the continent of America and the adjacent islands the same being contained within the geographical limits herein set forth, to wit:—The eastern limit is the line of demarcation between the Russian and British possessions in North America, as established by the convention between Russia and Great Britain, of Feb. 28 (16), 1825, and described in articles 3d and 4th of said convention, in the following terms: "Commencing from the southernmost point of the island called Prince of Wales Island, which point lies in the parallel of 54° 40' north latitude, and between the one hundred and thirty-first and the one hundred and thirty-third degree of west longitude, meridian of Greenwich. The said line shall ascend to the North along the channel called Portland Channel as far as the point of the continent where it strikes the fifty-sixth degree of north latitude. From this last mentioned point the line of demarcation shall follow the summit of the mountains situated parallel to the coast as far as the point of intersection of the one hundred and forty-first degree of west longitude of the same meridian, and finally from the said point of intersection the said meridian line of the one hundred and forty-first degree in its prolongation as far as the Frozen Ocean. With reference to the line of demarcation laid down in the preceding article, it is understood—first, that the island called Prince of Wales Island shall belong wholly to Russia (and now, by this cession, wholly to the United States); second, that whenever the summit of the mountains which extend in a direction parallel to the coast from the fifty-sixth degree of north latitude to the point of intersection of the one hundred and forty-first degree of west longitude shall prove to be at the distance of more than ten marine leagues from the ocean, the limit between the British possessions and the line of coast which is to belong to Russia, as above mentioned—(that is to say, the limit of the possessions ceded by this convention)—shall be formed by a line parallel to the winding of the coast, and which shall never exceed the distance of ten marine leagues therefrom. The western limit, within which the territories and dominion conveyed are contained, passes through a point in Behring's Straits on the parallel of 65° 30' north latitude, at the intersection by the meridian, which passes midway between the islands of Krusenstern or Ignalook, and Ratmanoff or Noonarbook, and proceeds due north without limitation into the same Frozen Ocean. The same western limit, beginning at the same initial point, proceeds thence in a course nearly southwest through Behring's Straits and Behring's Sea, so as to pass midway between the northwest point of the Island of St. Lawrence and the southeast point of Cape Choukotskii to the meridian of 172 west longitude. Thence from the intersection of that meridian in a southwesterly direction, so as to pass midway between the Island of the Kormandorski couplet or group in the North Pacific Ocean, to the meridian of 193° west longitude, so as to include in the territory conveyed the whole of the Aleutian Islands east of that meridian.

Article 2. In the cession of territory and dominion made by the preceding article are included the right of property in all public lots and squares, vacant lands, and all public buildings, barracks and other edifices, which are not private individual property. It is, however, understood and agreed that the churches which have been built in the ceded territory by the Russian government shall remain the property of such members of the Greek Oriental church resident in the territory as may be now existing there, will be left in the possession of the agent of the United States; but an authenticated copy of such of them as may be required will be at all times given by the United States to the Russian government, or to such Russian officers or subjects as they may apply for.

Article 3. The inhabitants of the ceded territory, according to their choice, reserving their natural allegiance, may return to Russia within three years; but if they should prefer to remain in the ceded territory, they, with the exception of uncivilized tribes, shall be admitted to the enjoyment of all the rights, advantages and immunities of citizens of the United States, and shall be maintained and protected in the free enjoyment of their liberty, property and religion. The uncivilized tribes will be subject to such laws and regulations as the United States may from time to time adopt in regard to aboriginal tribes of that country.

Article 4. His Majesty the Emperor of the Russias shall appoint, with convenient dispatch, an agent or agents for the purpose of formally del

Our Foreign Correspondence.

JERUSALEM, Friday night, March 1.

Tuesday morning, the 26th of February, we started for an excursion to Jericho, the Jordan, Dead Sea and Bethlehem. J—— and Mr. K—— in the machine, W—— and I on horseback, accompanied by our Syrian dragoman, with his five or six mules and donkeys, muleteers, cook, waiter, baggage, tent, bedding, cooking-utensils, &c. As persons travelling to Jericho now, as in the times of our Savior, are liable "to fall among thieves," and "good Samaritans" are not always passing by, it became necessary for us to be provided with a guard to protect us from being relieved of our surplus cash.

This country is governed, or is pretended to be governed by Turkey. The Sultan pays the sheikh of a little village near Bethany an annual sum to guarantee the safety of travellers going to and returning from the Jordan. Accordingly our dragoman applied for a guard and received an escort consisting of the sheikh's son, nephew, and five half naked, cut-throat looking vagabonds, armed with a long barrel flint-lock blunderbuss, tomahawks, Indian war-clubs, and pistols. The son of the sheikh and the nephew were mounted, and the rest were on foot. Thus equipped we left the city by the Damascus gate and wound round Mt. Olivet.

The road was no road at all, nor is there a single one in all Palestine, but a very rough mountain path full of stones and rocks around and over which horses have to clamber, sliding occasionally down a smooth ledge and twisting their legs in every sort of fashion to keep on their feet at all. Horses here have the bottom of their feet entirely covered with iron, instead of being shod as they are with us. This makes it difficult for them to stand upon an inclined smooth surface, but completely protects their hoofs from being knocked to pieces by the stones.—W—— and I had good, sure footed horses, and were satisfied if they could stand up and make my progress at all. They rest of the horsemen took special delight in racing their horses up over the rocks where a goat could hardly climb, and wheeling about, they would come charging down again as if they were bound to break their own necks as well as those of their horses. This sort of thing they kept up more or less the whole time.—Many a time, have I expected to see horse and rider knocked into a jelly, but they did not meet with the slightest accident. And it is just the same whether they have saddles and bridles or not. It would not be so strange if the roads were smooth, but in all your experience, you never saw anything that began to compare with these Syrian paths. In fact there are miles of the distance up one mountain and down another, steep and precipitous, where there is not the least sign of a track. It has to be picked as you go, and where one cannot do that, he must get into a dry bed of a mountain torrent and follow that up or down as the case may be.

Passing out of the Damascus gate, we crossed the valley of the brook Kedron, (its bed is now dry,) just below the garden of Gethsemane, around the Mount of Olives to Bethany, about a mile and a half from Jerusalem, taking the same route to Bethany that our Savior took when he made his triumphal entry from Bethany into Jerusalem, as related in the 21st chapter of Matthew.—You know he loved to resort to this little hamlet, hid below the mountain. Here He raised Lazarus from the dead. Here was the house of Simon the leper, in which Mary anointed Jesus with the precious ointment. Here Mary, Martha and Lazarus lived, and thither the Savior often resorted after the fatigues and labors of the day. This was or is, indeed, holy ground. It seemed as if we could almost hear the multitude as they shout: "Hosanna to the Son of David! Blessed is He that cometh in the name of the Lord." Of course I cannot give you any adequate description of my feelings in view of such sacred scenes as these. The Savior daily becomes dearer to me; the more I have seen here, the more is my faith strengthened in the sure foundations of scripture and their divine truthfulness.

The village of Bethany is almost a ruin. It contains a dozen or twenty poor looking houses, evidently constructed of materials that had been used before, being of massive stone, rudely arranged.

The tomb of Lazarus, from which he was called by our Savior, and the house of Simon the leper, are pointed out. I have but little faith in these very precise localities. I know these wonderful works were wrought right here in Bethany, that to all intents and purposes the scene upon which I look out to-day is the same that greeted his vision. These all contribute to the deep interest I feel in everything about me.

Our course from Bethany is over mountain upon mountain, bleak, bare and desolate. It is the wilderness of Judea and seems a most fitting place for the haunts of thieves, robbers and assassins, who for upwards of 1800 years have hired their lairs. No houses, fences, cultivation or sign of human being, except now and then a Bedouin with his long musket, skulking about the mountains and caves. The road, indescribably horrible, and worse, if possible, from the fact that our course was generally down hill.

Just before reaching the Jordan Valley, we came to a magnificent gorge in the mountain. The sides were perpendicular, between four and five hundred feet high, and separated from each other, perhaps fifty or a hundred feet. Towards the plain the sides become less precipitous, and assume the appearance of a valley. In the bottom of it flows the brook Cherith, where the prophet was fed by the ravens during the famine—1 Kings, 17th chapter, 1st to 7th verse. It is well known, also to be the Valley of Achor, in which Achan was stoned by the Israelites, for stealing, just after the taking of Jericho. We stopped for lunch at a pile of ruins, supposed to be the remains of a Roman station, and the good Samaritan left the wounded man.

We soon after reached the plain of Jericho, and a magnificent place it is. The Dead Sea like a great mirror, stretches far on this right of South, the Jordan comes in from the North, this Mountain of Moab on the left, and the whole land we might call "The West." The plain can fairly be called fine, while the mountains on either hand, rising one after other, like a gigantic staircase, form a most fitting frame work for the picture. Jericho, as we saw it, lay before us, the following account of the destruction of Jericho, and the curse upon the man who should attempt to build the city, 1st Kings, 16th chapter, 34th verse, "In his first born he shall lay the foundation thereof, and in his youngest son he shall set up the gates thereof." Hiel, the Bethelite, was evidently a man of great wealth, and he could afford to pay the price for the city. We learn from the Scriptures that the sons of the prophets dwelt in Jericho, and we can easily imagine how the news would spread that the city was to be built again, and how the people would flock to see the man who was daring enough to disregard the curse of God, and how they would mock at the idea that God would make good his word. We can also imagine how the news would spread that the city was again in ruins, and how the people would say, "We told you so, we knew it would be so."

The Half-Worn Shoes.

Only four—just four short years
Since she came to me,
Nestling in my heart and arms,
Oh so tenderly!
Now the rain falls on her grave,
Sighing wearily

Only four—how I listened
For her hasty feet,
Pattering softly down the stair
Page home to greet.
Never to a mother's heart
Was a sound more sweet

Only four—my precious girl,
With her honest eyes
Always looking into mine
With a sweet surprise
Now with faded autumn leaves
Little Bessie lies!

Little Bessie just has gone
In a winning way
To repeat her 'Now I lay me'
At the close of day,
Tears come faster than the words
When I kneel to pray

Only these—an empty crib
And a vacant chair—
With a half-worn pair of shoes,
And a curl of hair
Golden with the sunshine falling
On her head so fair

Only these are left the now,
And the house is still
Everything seems asking for her;
And my heart so still
Asks for Bessie, never thinking
Of our Father's will.

Quite forgetting that the angels
Look her home to God,—
Only Bessie's body resting
Under the brown sod
Help me now in my great sorrow,
Christ to kiss thy rod!

A LESSON FOR HUSBANDS

Mrs Thorneycroft's little back parlor was what New England housewives call "in apple pie order" And that, properly interpreted, means very perfect order indeed

The fire, like a great red cluster of rubies was shining ruddy through the twilight the table was spread with faultless china burnished silver and glittering cut glass and Mrs Thorneycroft herself had been out in the garden and gathered the blue, bloomy bunches of late grapes that were in the basket on the sideboard destined to adorn the dessert And she had stood before the fire, balancing first one small slippered foot and then the other on the polished rail of the fender she smiled to herself to think what a charming culinary surprise was covered up in the kitchen oven, in the shape of sundry dainty birds nestling on toast, and browned to a marvellous shade of perfection

'I hope he will make his appearance before they are quite spoiled,' sighed Mrs Thorneycroft, as the bronze clock struck the hour of six He was so careless about being in time for his meals

What a trim dimpled, satisfactory little Mrs Thorneycroft she was, as she stood there, with the firelight shining into her blue eyes and glossing her satin brown hair, and just revealing the faint, peachy bloom on her cheeks and the exquisite turn of her round white throat The very black silk dress she wore seemed to fit her by instinct and the white apron, with its ruffled pockets was simply a bit of perfect perfection

Suddenly she straightened her little figure and her dark spaniel blue eyes sparkled as a foot step sounded on the threshold below

'It is Harry' only five minutes behind time, after all

But it was not Harry—it was only the cook who came to pass a social evening back of the kitchen stove —Poor Milly! she thought of the fast depreciating birds and sighed

Fifteen minutes past six Milly rang for the cook to take the tea urn down stairs again

'You can bring it up when Mr Thorneycroft comes in, Bridget'

Half-past six—quarter to seven!

Milly began to grow a little nervous, she went to the parlor window and looked up and down the street

'I wish he would be a little more punctual

The wish was yet framing itself in her mind when there was a night key slipped into the door—a tramp of masculine boot heels on the hall oil cloth, and Harry came jovially into the room

'As dark as a pocket, eh, Milly' Here—give me a match, and I'll light the gas'

'What makes you so late, Harry'

'Late' Oh—let me see—a fellow came in to the office, and we smoked a cigar together, and the first I know it was half past six'

'The dinner is spoiled' sighed Milly, 'and I am so tired of waiting'

'O, never mind—never mind, said Harry briskly, sitting down to the table Hallo! are these shriveled up little atomies all you have for dinner'

'They were beautiful birds an hour ago

'Well, at all events, we can eat the chicken pie The tea is cold as stone

'I declare, said Milly, drily 'Six is our dinner hour'

'Where's the use of being particular to a shade' demanded Mr Thorneycroft with his mouth full of chicken pie 'Women are so whimsical What do you say to having Rachel to night'

Milly's face brightened up

'I should like it of all things, Harry

'Then we will go'

Half an hour after wards Milly came down, a pearl gray silk with a scarlet opera cloak over her shoulders and a coquettish French hat of white crape and scarlet buds fastened, a woman only knows how among her brown braids Bridget only was in the room, carrying away the relics of the late dinner

'Where is Mr Thorneycroft Bridget'

'Just stepped out to get shaved, ma'am—he says he'll be back directly

Milly sat down by the fire and began to read As she turned the first page the clock struck eight

'We shall certainly be late,' thought Milly, nervously

Five—ten—fifteen minutes went by Milly closed her book and laid it aside, a novel beyond all expression It was nearly nine when a long, long, length her husband came in

'Ready' echoed Milly, who was deliberately untying her bonnet 'Look at the clock

'By Jove' ejaculated Mr Thorneycroft, 'who would have supposed it was so late' But you see, I met Jenkins, and we ran to the down street a little way, and—

'And so we may as well give up Rachel at once'

'Never mind Milly, we can go some other evening'

Milly did not trust her wayward tongue to answer, else she might have truthfully replied that all evenings were alike, and that the occasional little treats just sufficient to have diversified her monotonous life were too often missed through the carelessness and selfishness of her husband

'Sulking, eh!' thought Harry discontentedly, as Milly went up stairs to put away her hat and circle 'Really Milly is a little too unreasonable If I drank or gambled there might be some excuse for her black looks, but a little carelessness—whereof the great crime of it!

'Mildred,' he said the next morning, at the breakfast table, 'it's not a very busy day with me, suppose we go up to Carrdale and spend the afternoon with your brother and his wife'

And return in the evening train!'

'Yes. Just imagine what a splendid day this will be for the children and Jessie and Charley! Look at the leaves! [illegible] yellow leaves! [illegible] Brother's [illegible] you shall! you are beginning to look [illegible] pale'

'[illegible] very pleasant, and [illegible] you [illegible] to be ready [illegible] minutes'

'[illegible] Milly did not [illegible] wholly [illegible] settlement [illegible] the best of holidays or a delightful [illegible] day

So does not [illegible] day

stirring them briskly together by means of a delicious emulsion which covers them with the mucus in complete, it is in the shape of a little nest, containing of from one hundred and fifty to three hundred and fifty eggs, which is not adhesive and abandoned to its fate The little raft floats persistently, it will not sink, nor will hard usage break it up, nor freezing destroy the vitality of the eggs In a few days the larvæ at the first stage of the insects is called, are hatched, and make their way out of the under side of the egg, and go off in search of food They may be seen in any vessel of rain-water that has been exposed for some days during summer, from their peculiar manner of locomotion they are called 'wrigglers' Near the tail is a tube of hairs through which the wriggler breathes When not disturbed it rests with its head downward, and with the tube at the surface of the water, but on approach of danger it rapidly wriggles its length to the bottom of the vessel After wriggling through eight to fifteen of the first days of its existence, and casting its skin two or three times, the mosquito goes into the pupa state In this condition it swims with its head upward, and though not nively as before, it moves and tumbles about by means of some paddles at the end of its tail While in the pupa state it takes no food, and its breathing arrangements are quite reversed, for, instead of respiring through the tube at the end of its tail, it is furnished with two tubes at the head, through which it takes in air This state of things lasts from five to ten days, when the skin bursts and the perfect insect comes forth the skin of the pupa bursts open on the back, and the insect first protrudes its head, then its chest gradually follows, and it stands erect in the shell with its legs still confined, and its wings limp and damp The slight est breeze at this time would upset the frail boat, and the insect would be drowned Soon the front pair of legs are extricated, and are placed upon the water This enables the insect to steady itself, and much diminishes the danger of upsetting The sun speedily dries the wings, which are gradually expanded, then the other legs are drawn out and placed on the edge of the pupa case, and the antennæ and proboscis are elevated, and the insect is able to quit its watery abode and fly off to serenade us with its shrill note, and to relieve us of our surplus blood

Naturalists are not agreed as to the manner in which the mosquito produces its peculiar and annoying sound, it is thought by some that the wings alone do not cause it but that they are aided by the rapid vibration of the muscles of the chest It is said that the wings vibrate fifty times in a second If the cause of the song of the mosquito is not well understood, such is not the case with the other annoying peculiarity—its sting Here the object is so small that the microscope must be called to our aid When examined by the glass, the sting is found to be a very beautiful as well as complex instrument The sting itself would cause but little annoyance, were it not that the proboscis gives off an irritating secretion which inflames the slight wound, and in some persons becomes a painful swelling, and even troublesome ulcers This is intended to give an idea of the structure and habits of mosquitoes in general, and not of any particular species Our mosquitoes belong to the general Megarhinus and Culex, but they do not seem to have been thoroughly studied, and there is much confusion among naturalists concerning them —American Agriculturist

THE RELICS OF THE ESCURIAL In Lady Hubert's "Impressions of Spain," just published in England, is the following interesting account of the "relics" in the Escurial

'The great treasures of this church are its relics of which the quantity is enormous They are arranged in gigantic cupboards or stageres, stretching from the floor to the ceiling, the doors of which are carefully concealed by the pictures which hang over them, above both the high altar and the two side altars at the east end There are more than seven thousand relics, of which the most interesting are those of St Lawrence himself (his skull, his winding sheet, the iron bars of his gridiron, &c,) the head of St Hermenigilde, sent to the king from Seville, and the arm and head of St Agatha The reliquaries are also very beautiful, some of them of very fine cinquecento work These are down stairs Upstairs is a kind of secret chapel, where there are some things which were still more interesting to our travellers Here are four manuscript books of St Theresa, all written by her own hand, her 'Life,' written by command of her confessor, Padre Banez, with a voucher of its authenticity from him at the end, her 'Path of Perfection,' her Constitution and Foundations, also an inkstand and pen Her handwriting is more like a man's than a woman's, and is beautifully clear and firm There is also a veil worked in a kind of crochet by St Elizabeth of Hungary and sent by her to St Margaret, a beautifully illuminated Greek missal, once belonging to St. Chrysostom a pot from China in Gabriel, a beautifully carved ivory diptych, the body of one of the Holy Innocents, sent from Bethlehem From the church our party went up by a magnificent staircase to the library, which, though despoiled, like everything else, during the French invasion, still contains some valuable books and manuscript There is an illuminated Apocalypse of the fourteenth century, most exquisitely painted on both sides, a very fine copy of the Koran, many other beautiful manuscripts and, in a room down stairs, not generally shown to travellers, are some thousand of manuscripts, among which are a wonderful illuminated copy of the 'Miracles of the Virgin,' in Portuguese and Gallego of the eleventh century most quaint and funny in design and execution; also a very curious illuminated book of chess problems and other games, written by order of the King Alonso el Sabio

IRRITATION OF THE NECK OF THE BLADDER
INFLAMMATION OF THE KIDNEYS
CATARRH OF THE BLADDER.

STRANGURY AND BURNING OR PAINFUL URINATING

For these diseases it is truly a sovereign remedy and too much cannot be said in its praise single dose has been known to relieve the most urgent symptoms

Are you troubled with that distressing pain in the small of the back and through the hips A teaspoonful a day of the Constitution Water will relieve you like magic

PHYSICIANS

Have long since given up the use of Buchu, cubebs and uniformly the treatment of these diseases and only use them for the worst of a better reason.

CONSTITUTION WATER

Has proved itself equal to the task but has devolved upon it.

DIURETICS

Irritate and drench the kidneys, and by constant use soon lead to chronic degeneration and confirmed disease

We present the Constitution Water to the public with the conviction that it has no equal in curing the class of diseases for which it has been found a eminently successful in curing and we trust that we shall be rewarded for our efforts in placing so valuable a remedy in a form to meet the requirements of patients and physicians

STROUDSBURG PA, Jan 29 1866

DR GREGG

Dear Sir —I wish to inform you that I have been under the treatment of some of our best physicians for nearly two years without receiving any benefit I had lost all confidence and I indulged in but little hope of a cure from any source My disease was Dropsy, and my physicians told me that there was no cure for me I was tapped some fifty times and at the different operations about 1200 pounds of water was removed

I am happy to inform you that I have been completely restored to health by the use of Constitution Water.

I make this statement hoping it may reach those persons who may be similarly afflicted

Respectfully,

MRS. MARGILL C LEVANWAY

IN DYSMENORRHŒA OR PAINFUL MENSTRUATION, AND MENORRHAGIA, OR PROFUSE FLOWING

Both diseases arising from a faulty secretion of the menstrual fluid—in one case being too little and accompanied by severe pain, and the other a too profuse secret on which will be speedily cured by the Constitution Water

That disease known as FALLING OF THE WOMB, which is the result of a relaxation of the ligaments of that organ, and is known by a sense of heaviness and dragging pains in the back and side and at times accompanied by sharp, lancinating or shooting pains through the part will in all cases be removed by the medicine

There is another class of symptoms arising from IRRITATION OF THE WOMB which physicians call Nervousness, which word covers up much ignorance, and in nine cases out of ten the doctor does not really know whether the symptoms are the disease, or the disease the symptoms We can only enumerate them here I speak more particularly of Cold Feet, Palpitation of the Heart Impaired Memory, Wakefulness, Flashes of Heat Languor, Lassitude and Dimness of Vision

READ! READ! READ!

DANVILLE PA June, 1862.—Dr William H Gregg —Dear Sir —In February 1861 I was afflicted with sugar diabetes and for five months I passed more than two gallons of water in twenty four hours. I was obliged to get up as often as ten or twelve times during the night, and in five months I lost about fifty pounds in weight During the month of July 1861, I procured two bottles of Constitution Water and in two days after using it I experienced relief, and after taking two bottles I was entirely cured soon after regaining my usual good health

Yours truly, J V L DEWITT

BOSTON CORNERS, N Y, Dec 27, 1861 —Wm H Gregg & Co —Gents —I freely give you liberty to make use of the following certificate of the value of the Constitution Water, which I can recommend in the highest manner —My wife was attacked with pain in the shoulders who a length of the back and in her limbs, with palpitation of the heart and irritation of the bladder I called a physician who attended her about three months, when he left her worse than he found her I then consulted one of the best physicians I could find who attended her for about nine months, and while she was under his care she did not suffer quite as much pain He finally gave her up and said her case was incurable For," said he she has real a combination of complaints that medicine given for one operates against some other of her difficulties" About this time she commenced to use the Constitution Water and to our utter astonishment, almost the first dose seemed to have the desired effect, and she kept on improving rapidly under its treatment, and now superintends entirely her domestic affairs She has not taken any of the Constitution Water for about four weeks, and we are happy to say that it has produced a permanent cure

WM M VAN BEUSCHOTEN

WEATHERSFIELD, Conn, March 2, 1863—Dr W H Gregg—Dear Sir —Having seen your advertisement of 'Constitution Water' recommended for Inflammation of the Kidneys and Irritation of the Bladder, having suffered for the past three years and tried the skill of a number of physicians with only temporary relief, I was induced to try your medicine. I procured one bottle of your agents at Hartford, Messrs Loe, Sanson & Co., and when I had used half of it, to my surprise, I found a great change in my health I have used two bottles of and am where I never expected to be in my life, well, and in good spirits I cannot express my gratitude enough. I feel that it all and more than you recommended it to be May the blessing of God ever attend you in your labors of love

Yours truly, LEONARD S BIGLOW

Various remedies have from time to time been recommended, such as calomel, oil of wormseed, tansy, etc. &c. proved dangerous and sometimes fatal consequences. After much research, study and experiments, embracing several years the proprietors of FELLOWS' WORM LOZENGES have succeeded in producing this remedy, free from all objections, and possessing all the qualities which may be required to rid the system of these disagreeable to their presence.
